Is equity release right for you?

Equity release schemes are only available if you are above a certain age (usually 55). They are a way of getting cash from the value of your home without having to move out.

If you need to release cash as a lump sum or to top up your income, you may be thinking about using an equity release scheme. But it might not be the best solution.

Before you sign up to an equity release scheme think about what you need money for and make sure you've explored all other options.

Alternatives you should consider first

Equity release schemes can be an expensive way of accessing money tied up in your home. They aren't suitable for everyone. If you need money, think about these options first.

➡ Selling your current home and buying a smaller property
You keep full ownership of your new home and avoid paying interest on a loan.

How equity release schemes work

These schemes allow you to release money from the equity you have built up in your home. The equity you have is how much you could sell your home for on the open market, less any mortgage or other debt held against it.

Key points

- 1. To qualify for an equity release scheme, you have to be a certain age (usually over 55) and own your own home.
- 2. You're more likely to be able to make use of an equity release scheme if you don't have a mortgage, or any mortgage you have is relatively small.
- 3. You are still responsible for maintaining your home. If you don't, the scheme provider could arrange repairs and you would have to pay for them.
- 4. You'll still be responsible for paying your utility bills and Council Tax (or Rates in Northern Ireland).

How do you get your money?

Most schemes will offer you the choice of:

- a cash lump sum
- the opportunity to take money when you need it or on a regular basis, often called a draw down or flexible facility
- a combination of these options, for example, you can take a lump sum at the start, and then draw down cash later.

Types of equity release schemes

There are two main types of equity release scheme:

- Lifetime mortgages.
- Home reversions.

The main differences are explained in the table below.

	Lifetime mortgage	Home reversion
How it works	You take out a loan on your home. Interest is normally added, or rolled up into the loan.	You sell all or a fixed proportion/percentage of your home.
Do you still own your home?	Yes, but the mortgage has to be paid back if you move into long-term care, or after your death.	No, you'll be a tenant of the reversion company for all or whatever part of the property you sold.
Can you stay living in your home?	Yes	Yes
Do I have to pay anything?	Usually nothing, but with some products you can choose to pay the interest.	Some home reversion plans charge a 'peppercorn' rent (around £50 a year).
How does the company get its money back?	The money and interest added on is repaid from the sale of your home if you move into long-term care, or after your death.	When your home is sold after you die or move out permanently.

Lifetime mortgages are explained on page 6 and Home reversions are explained on page 10.

Lifetime mortgages explained

There are two main types available:

1. Interest roll-up mortgages

With a roll-up mortgage, interest is added to the loan. You don't make regular payments; the amount you originally borrowed, plus the rolled-up interest is repaid when your home is sold after death or if you have to move permanently into care.

The amount you owe increases because interest is being added or rolled-up on to the original loan.

Lifetime mortgages are typically arranged this way, but some allow you to pay the interest (see Interest-only mortgages on the next page).

Eventually this might mean that you owe more than the value of your home. However, most lifetime mortgages offer a no-negative-equity guarantee giving the reassurance that what you repay doesn't exceed the value of your property. Make sure your mortgage scheme includes this.

The loan you get can be paid to you:

- in a cash lump sum
- in smaller sums over time – either regularly or when you need them.

If you choose a single cash lump sum at the start, the amount you owe can grow quickly – see the table below. If you take smaller sums over time the amount you owe will grow more slowly.

➔ Find out more about lifetime mortgages at moneyadvice.service.org.uk/lifetime-mortgages

Number of years since you took out the loan	Amount you owe if you take a lump sum of £45,000 at the start and if the mortgage interest rate is:
	5% a year	7% a year	9% a year
5	£57,433	£63,115	£69,239
10	£73,301	£88,522	£106,532
15	£93,552	£124,157	£163,912
20	£119,399	£174,136	£252,199
25	£152,387	£244,235	£388,039

2. Interest-only mortgages

Like a roll-up mortgage you get a cash lump sum. However, as with a standard fixed mortgage you pay a fixed rate of interest on the loan each month. Some providers may allow for capital repayments (i.e. usually up to 10%).

The amount you originally borrowed is repaid when your home is sold.

Pros and cons of lifetime mortgages
Pros	Cons
<ul style="list-style-type: none">✓ Fixed rates prevent interest spiraling out of control for the lifetime of the loan.✓ You can get a monthly income or a large lump sum.✓ You get to keep and stay in your own home.✓ Many schemes guarantee that the total debt won't exceed the value of your property.✓ The loan is only repaid at the end of your mortgage term which is at death or when you move into long term care.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">✗ The inheritance you pass on may be reduced and your beneficiaries (the people you leave your estate to) may have to sell your home in order to repay the lifetime mortgage.✗ Schemes can be inflexible if your circumstances change – you'll usually need the provider's permission for someone else, such as a relative, carer or new partner to move in.✗ The scheme might affect your entitlement to benefits, as any money you raise through equity release is likely to affect the assessment of your income and capital.✗ You might need to pay arrangement, valuation and legal fees.✗ You might not be able to transfer all of the debt if you move to a smaller property.

Lifetime mortgages – an example

Compare the same loan amount of £45,000 across schemes. See what you might get and what you might have to pay based on an interest rate of 6.5%.

Payment as income or lump sum	Lump sum	Income (drawdown)	Lump sum
Monthly interest payable on loan	Nil as interest is paid when home is sold.	Nil as interest is paid when home is sold	£243.75
Monthly income	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.	Depends on scheme – can be regular or as and when you need it.	Depends on how the lump sum is invested.
Amount you owe if you die/move out after 15 years	£45,000 (the original loan) plus £70,733 interest. Total = £115,733	£45,000 (the original loan) plus £30,087 interest. This is based on income of £250 each month. Total = £75,087	£45,000 (the original loan). You'll have paid £43,875 in interest over the 15 years (£243.75 each month).
Who gets the proceeds of selling your home?	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan plus interest – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.	The lender gets back the amount owed for the original loan – you or your beneficiaries get the balance.

Home reversions explained

With a home reversion plan you sell all or part of your home in return for a cash lump sum, a regular income or both.

Usually you don't pay rent, or if you do it's only a minimal amount.

When your home is sold, the reversion company gets its share of it. If you sold the entire property they will get all of the proceeds. If you sold half, they get that share of the proceeds, leaving the rest to go towards your estate.

The older you are when you start a home reversion scheme, the higher the percentage you'll get of your home's market value. For this reason they are normally best suited to those over 70. If you are considering a home reversion plan make sure you get your home independently valued.

➔ Find out more about home reversions at moneyadvice.service.org.uk/home-reversion

Pros and cons of home reversions

Pros	Cons
✓ You get to stay in your own home for the rest of your life, or until you have to move permanently into care.	✗ You're no longer the sole owner of your home.
✓ Equity release schemes can reduce any Inheritance Tax liability your beneficiaries will have to pay after death.	✗ You will normally get less than the full market value of your home – typically between 20% and 60% – because the buyer can't re-sell the property until you die or until you move out.
✓ If you've only sold part of your home, you may benefit from any rise in the value of the share you've kept as you have full ownership of the retained portion.	✗ The inheritance for your beneficiaries will be substantially reduced.
	✗ The scheme may affect your entitlement to benefits, as the money raised affects the assessment of your income.
	✗ Schemes can be inflexible if your circumstances change – you'll usually need the provider's permission for someone else, such as a relative, carer or new partner to move in.

Home reversions – lump sum v income or both

A lump sum gives you the freedom to manage your money, but if you live to a very old age you might have little of it left for your later years. With the income option, there's the peace of mind of knowing you'll receive regular payments over a set period of time.

These examples aren't based on any particular amount paid over to you. Before taking out an equity release scheme, get advice from a solicitor and a professional financial adviser (see page 17).

Home reversion	Lump sum or income from the sale of part or all of the property
Monthly interest payable	£0 – a reversion is not a loan so there's no interest to pay.
Monthly income	Depends on your arrangements with the provider or how you invest the lump sum.
How much are the proceeds?	Depends on the value of the property at the time you die and how much of it you sold.
Who gets the proceeds of selling your home?	The home reversion company – you or your beneficiaries get the value of any part of your home you didn't sell.

Remember

Equity release schemes can be complex products and it is essential you seek independent legal and financial advice.

Bear in mind that if you don't take advice and the scheme you choose turns out to be unsuitable, you will have fewer grounds for complaint.

Be aware

With a sale-and-rent-back scheme you may have to leave your home after the end of the fixed term in your tenancy agreement, which may only last five years. And you will have to pay a much higher rent which could go up. Consider these schemes only as a last resort and ensure you deal with an FCA regulated firm at register.fca.org.uk.

If you're looking at equity release schemes and the alternatives, you can find out more on the Money Advice Service website moneyadvice.service.org.uk/equityrelease

What happens if your situation changes?

This table shows what happens under different types of scheme if things change in your life.

If you decide to move

Lifetime mortgages

Most lifetime mortgages can be transferred to the new property.

If you're moving to a lower-value property, you'll usually have to repay part of the lifetime mortgage.

If you can't transfer the scheme, you'll have to repay the whole mortgage when you sell your property.

The roll-up of interest might mean you have less than expected to buy a new property with.

There may be charges if you repay the loan early.

Check with the lender about any restrictions on moving.

Home reversions

Some home reversion plans can be transferred.

If you can't transfer the scheme, you'll have to buy back the property or share of the property. This could be very expensive and might not leave you with enough to buy the new property.

If you owe more than the property is worth

Lifetime mortgages

The loan and rolled-up interest can increase to more than the potential rise in the value of your property.

However, most lifetime mortgages offer a no negative equity guarantee, that your beneficiaries won't have to repay more than the value of your property.

Make sure your scheme offers this and is a member of a recognised trade body or your beneficiaries may have to repay the extra.

Home reversions

This doesn't apply to home reversions.

If you decide to cancel

Lifetime mortgages

You can pay off a lifetime mortgage at any time, but there's likely to be a charge and this may be high.

Find out from your lender what you have to pay.

Home reversions

You may be able to cancel a home reversion in very limited circumstances, but this could be very expensive.

If you decide to switch deals

Lifetime mortgages

You may be able to switch your lifetime mortgage to get a better deal. Check if there's an early repayment charge as this could cancel out the benefit you get from switching.

Home reversions

You can't switch a home reversion plan, as you have already sold some or all of your home. This can't be undone unless you buy back the share from the provider at its full market value.

If you die soon after taking out a scheme

Lifetime mortgages

Most lenders will charge interest until your property is sold and the mortgage repaid in full.

Home reversions

The reversion company would take the percentage that was due from the sale proceeds of the property, so – depending how much you originally received – it could be quite an expensive deal.

If you die before your partner

Lifetime mortgages

If the scheme is in both names, the arrangements will continue.

If the scheme and the property are both in your sole name, the property would have to be sold and your partner would have to move. Unless, for example, they could repay the lifetime mortgage in full.

Home reversions

The same applies.

If you decide to share your home

Lifetime mortgages

You may be able to transfer the scheme into your joint names. The second person may have to meet the scheme's minimum age requirements and there may be a charge.

If you can't transfer the scheme into joint names, the other person won't be able to stay in the home if you die or move out.

Home reversions

A home reversion is typically a one-off agreement, so can't be added to or changed after the event.

If you or your partner needs long-term care

Lifetime mortgages

Always check with your scheme provider at the outset that your equity release scheme will usually carry on unchanged if care is provided in your own home or just one of you moves to a care home.

If you both move permanently into a care home, the scheme will usually end and the property will be sold.

Home reversions

The same applies.

Fees and costs

You'll have to pay fees and costs to use an equity release scheme. Make sure you ask for illustrations or quotes that set these out.

- Arrangement fee: some schemes will charge an arrangement fee, also known as an application or product fee.
- Valuation fee: linked to the value of the property. Probably around £200 for a property valued at £250,000.
- Legal costs: ask your solicitor for the total cost.
- Buildings insurance: this will vary, depending on the property. If you already have buildings insurance it will need to meet the lender's requirements.
- Early repayment charge: if you repay your lifetime mortgage before the end of the contract you may have to pay an early repayment charge. These vary according to the lender.
- Possible rental charges: with a home reversion you may have to pay rent, but often this is only a minimal amount.

With a lifetime mortgage some of these costs can be added to the loan so although you pay less up front, you pay interest on any amounts added.

If you decide to borrow more in future under a drawdown arrangement, some lenders may charge extra lending fees.

If things go wrong

If something goes wrong, contact the adviser or provider to put matters right.

If you're not satisfied with their response or they don't respond within a certain amount of time, you can take your complaint to the Financial Ombudsman Service (FOS) for free.

➔ For more information visit moneyadvice.service.org.uk/money-problems, or to contact the FOS see Useful contacts on page 21.

Compensation

If the adviser or provider has stopped trading and isn't able to pay claims against it, the Financial Services Compensation Scheme (FSCS) may be able to help.

The service is free to claimants – see Useful contacts on page 21.

You won't lose your home because a lender stops trading, but if you have a lifetime mortgage where regular payments are made, you must continue to pay them.

Get professional advice

Before taking out an equity release product make sure you get professional advice.

Firms selling or advising on equity release schemes must be regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) and they need to have a relevant equity release qualification to give advice. This means they have to meet certain standards and there are procedures to follow if things go wrong, including using the FOS.

Check the FCA register to make sure a firm is regulated. See Useful Contacts on page 18.

Get information tailored to you

When you ask about equity release schemes, you'll be given printed information. This is general information – not advice specific to your needs and circumstances.

An FCA regulated firm will be obliged to take your circumstances into account. They should:

- check whether using the scheme will affect your tax bill and entitlement to benefits
- tell you the advantages and disadvantages of the scheme
- give you details of the scheme's features

- for lifetime mortgages they must give you the APR – annual percentage interest rate – if they give you price information
- tell you if there's a fee for advising or arranging your mortgage.

Use keyfacts information to compare products

Your adviser should give you two documents. One will explain the service being offered, if you'll have to pay for it, and the product range on offer.

The second, a mortgage illustration will be prepared specifically for you. It should outline all the important risks and features of the particular scheme.

You can use these documents to compare schemes and they can help the adviser recommend the one which is best suited to your needs.

Use these documents to make sure what you are being offered is right for you.
